Hot Air Furnaces.

Kohler's Patent Wrought Iron, Double Radiating Hot Air Furnace.

This Furnace was first made in Boston in 1863, and so successful has been its operation that more than 600 are now in use in Boston and vicinity. Some of the advantages of this Furnace are: The large amount of its radiating surface and its prompt distribution of cold air to every part of the furnace, the two distinct hot air chambers, enabling far more rooms to be heated equally as well as close near the furnace, the joints are all steam tight, and only or cement being used in its construction, it is easily cleaning, there being no place for the lodgment of ashes, as they fall directly back into the pit. This sifting arrangement, the water pan, the ash pit, and all in keeping with that Furnace and will bear a critical examination. Any one in want of a first class heater is invited to call and look this Furnace over, and we shall be pleased to show it, whether you buy or not.

To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot.

The undersigned, Administrator of the estate of David Ellsworth, late of Brewer, in said County, deceased, respectfully represents that the goods and chattels, rights and credits of said deceased, are not sufficient to pay his just debts and charges of administration, by the sum of seventeen hundred and twenty dollars and ninety-eight cents.

Wherefore your petitioner prays your Honor to grant him a license to sell, at public or private sale, so much of the real estate of said deceased, as the residue would be greatly depreciated by the sale of any portion (including the reversion of the widow's dower therein), to satisfy said debts, expenses of sale, and charges of administration.

Said real estate is the same described in a Deed recorded in the Registry of Deeds of said County

VEGETINE.

HER OWN WORDS.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 13, 1877.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir,—For several years I have got a sore and very painful foot. I had some physicians, but they couldn't cure me. Now I have heard of your Vegetine from a lady who was sick for a long time and became well from your Vegetine, and I went and bought me one bottle of Vegetine, and after I had used one bottle, the pains left me, and it began to heal, and then I bought me other bottles and so I take it yet. I thank God for this remedy and yours alone, and wishing every sufferer may pay attention to it. It is a blessing for health.

MRS. G. KRAUE, 153 West Baltimore Street.

Vegetine

SAFE AND SURE.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

In 1852 your Vegetine was recommended to me, and, yielding to the persuasions of a friend, I procured it for my wife. At that time I was suffering from general debility and American prostration, supposed to originate in Irregular habits. Its wonderful strengthening and curative properties seemed to affect my debilitated system from the first dose, and under its powerful influence I rapidly recovered, gaining more than usual health and good feeling. Since then I have not hesitated to give Vegetine my most unqualified indorsement, as being a safe, sure, and powerful agent in promoting health and restoring the wasted system to vigorous life and energy. Vegetine is the only medicine I use, and as long as I live I never expect to use other.

WHAT IS NEEDED.

BOSTON, Feb 14, 1871

H. R. STEVENS, ESQ.

Dear Sir—About one year since I found myself in a weak condition from general debility. Your Vegetine was strongly recommended to me by a friend who had been much benefited by it, and I, to recover the article, and, after using several bottles, was restored to health, and discontinued its use. I feel quite confident that there is no medicine equal to it for those complaints for which it is especially prepared, and would cheerfully recommend it to those who feel that they need something to restore them to perfect health.

Respectfully yours, U. L. PETTENGILL,

H. R. STEVENS, Jun.,

Dear Sir,—I have had dyspepsia in its worst form for the last ten years, and have taken hundreds of dollars worth of medicine without obtaining any relief. In September last I commenced taking the Vegetine, since which time my health has steadily improved. My food digests well, and I have gained in flesh quite a little. I have recommended others to take it, and all have obtained relief.

SUPERNATURAL HUMBUG.

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

Humbugs appear to flourish in the Quaker City like mushrooms in a sheep-field. Hardly half the exposure of the Katie King swindle driven poor Robert Dale Owen into annoyance, than the farce was reproduced in the same neighborhood by two ignorant rogues with precisely the same machinery—corner cupboard, trap-door, jingling banjo, French masks, and all. Some prying reporter has unearthed the whole nasty business, and dragged dupes, mediums and spirits into court together. Big Indians and squaws, blue dowers, punis, Persian princesses, Virgin Marys, angels from the seventh sphere, and pirates of the fifteenth century with all their gaudry toggery of paint, robes and turkey feathers. The noteworthy point is that among the most credulous dupes were men of wealth and wide culture—lawyers, financiers and librarians of National reputation, among them ex-Governor Morton, who, while he was carrying on his own gigantic swindle, fell an easy victim to the banjo and trap-door game. The story revealed in the trial is almost incredible. These eminent men came laden with gifts for the spirits—jewelry for the women, guns for the pirates, whiskey for Big Indian. They paid high for private seances, and called back the shades of their first loves, adjuring them and kissing them with a fervor creditable to fickle human nature. All Philadelphia this week is in a broad grin over the matter, and the particulars are laid before the wives of the victims in every morning's paper. The moral of which is, whatever a man may believe as to Spiritualism, it is safer not to commit himself to a first love, dead or alive, until his wife is safe on the other side of the Styx.

THE MISSISSIPPI PLAN.

[From the Providence (R. I.) Journal.]

Much commendation has been lavished on the grand jury of Kemper county, Miss., for its tardy justice at finding indictments against the assassins of the Chisholm family. At least it was understood that among the many unpunished murderers in that part of the State these men had been selected for judicial retribution. The Meridian Mercury warned the officers of the law not to impose the "demon," by making any arrests, and they seem to have been intimidated by the threat, if indeed, they ever had an idea of carrying out the processes of the court. At the last account, not a single arrest had been made for participation that bloody crime; and the names of the persons accused by the grand jury are not known except to the officers of the court. While not one has supposed that they would be brought to punishment, it was regarded as an encouraging sign that even the forms of the law were to be employed against them. It seems that this expectation is to be disappointed, further than the indictment of the grand jury. There is no justice in Mississippi for a Republican, without distinction of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

So with no disrobe to you and no special credit to us, the war turned out as it did.—President Hayes at Atlanta.

No, this great war was not one in which one side was about as much to blame as the other, and in which all who took a part on either side, are entitled to equal credit. One side was very wrong and the other was very right. That the South was honest in the light we do not question, but it was honestly wrong, and the North was honestly right. It is upon that theory that the Government has been reconstructed, and it is upon that theory that it must be carried on.—Providence Journal.

Well said and true. But why don't you say this directly to the President as we do? So long as he is allured to by a portion of the press and other newspapers which realize the danger of his course hesitate about offering their convictions in direct and earnest protest the Government will be carried farther and farther from that theory which the Journal justly declares essential to its safety and honor.

THE AROOSTOOK SENATORSHIP. It appears by the clerk's returns received at the State House, that Hon. P. P. Burleigh, Republican candidate for Senator in Aroostook county, is defeated, and that Hon. Edmund Madigan is elected by about 78 majority. This result is due to the returns from the Madawaska District, where it is said the voting was kept up for a week. This would seem to be no joke, as the vote thrown in that district is larger than was thrown Presidential year. It is evident that the Democrats there haven't forgot their old tricks. Outside of the Madawaska district, Mr. Burleigh is ahead of Mr. Madigan by 500 votes.—Kennebec Journal.

It is very evident on the face of the returns that a similar investigation to that ordered by the Legislature some years ago would reveal similar interesting performances in the Madawaska region.

THE NEW ADMINISTRATION ORGAN. We have received the first number of the "National Union," the new Administration daily started in Washington by a company under the lead of ex-Representative John Lynch, of this State, with ex-Solicitor of the Treasury Geo. F. Talbot as chief editor. It displays a most ardent organic zeal in the first issue, devoting a long leader to the arraignment of Senator Conkling and the New York Republican Convention for failing to indorse the Administration. The paper is of the same size as the Commercial, is neatly arranged and presents a nice typographical appearance. Whether it will be longer lived than the long line of its predecessors in that field can only be determined by time.

In another column we let THE BANGOR WHIG tell a story which fairly convicts that snivelling reform organ, the New York Post, of using falsehood as a weapon of defence for the policy. Many other organs have hugged the delusion about the attitude of the Maine Republicans, and perhaps they will like to correct their errors from the facts given. The editors who pant for true goodness and conciliation never have been caught retracting their falsehoods, but this is a good time to begin a very extensive business in that line.—Boston Traveller.

The worst things the Cincinnati Times can find in Platt's speech at the New York Convention are insinuations to the effect that Evarts is a Peckniff and a trickster, and that Schurz is a demagogue. And the Times adds: "This is bad, very bad; but there are men living who will forgive him for it."

THE MASSACHUSETTS CANVASS.—THE ISSUE THRUST UPON SINCERE REPUBLICANS.

[Cor. Boston Traveller.]

BOSTON, Sept. 25, 1877.

Editor of the Traveller.—I have been studying the papers to find out how to vote at the coming election. I am a Republican. I worked and voted for Mr. Hayes and the Republican Congressman in my district, and rejoiced at their success. I am now anxious to know how I can best serve the same principles. I read in Boston Advertiser, and also in the Herald (a queer combination,) that I must vote for Mr. Rice, in order to indorse Mr. Hayes. I don't see the force of the argument, and besides I am very certain that I don't want to indorse Mr. Hayes. What am I asked to indorse? Last year, about this time, I was told by the Republican papers and speakers that I must vote for Hayes, because if Tilden should be elected the troops would be withdrawn from the South, in which event the black man would be left to the tender mercies of the Ku-Klux, and be murdered or suffer things worse than death. The Democrats, on the other hand, clamored for the removal of the troops, denounced their presence as usurpation, and declared that the troops caused, instead of prevented, trouble. Mr. Hayes was elected, and, to my astonishment, he has done exactly what I was told Mr. Tilden would do, and what, it was said, would bring ruin upon the country. I confess to a suspicion that I have been cheated, or am to be cheated. The Republican leaders were either lying to me last fall, or they are trying to deceive me now. If the Democratic policy against which I was warned last October, was the terrible thing it was painted, it can't have changed its nature merely by being adopted by a Republican President.

I have good reasons for believing that the Republican speakers and writers of last year were right. I have travelled through the South. I know the feeling of the Southern leaders. The present peacefulness is for a purpose—to secure the completion of the surrender of the North. Of course the Southern Democrats will restrain all outbreaks now. They believe in the policy, and will tolerate nothing which will interfere with its adoption, but wait until the next elections in the South, and see whether the men who have perpetrated outrages in the black, and white loyalists in the past are dead. The rattles of the Southern serpent have been muffled, but his fangs are unbroken.

As I do not endorse the Southern policy of the President, so I do not endorse his speeches. In his Atlanta speech he says to the rebels, "It is no discredit to you and no special credit to us, that the war turned out as it did." I believe it is a credit to the soldiers of the North that the war resulted as it did, and a Northern man ought to wish his tongue had been palsied before he was permitted to utter such a libel upon the memories of our dead and our living heroes. There is a difference between a loyal soldier who perilled his life for his country and faced the terrible death of Andersonville and the rebel who guarded well that prison and fought to take his country's life, and if Mr. Hayes doesn't know it, so much the worse for him and for the country. It is not wise to ask Northern loyal men to endorse such a sentiment. The Republican leaders—I beg pardon, the Reformers—have forced the issue squarely upon the party, by the adoption of the platform. It announces that every vote cast for Mr. Rice is an endorsement of Mr. Hayes' policy. This compels men who do not wish to endorse the policy to withhold their votes from Mr. Rice. How large the number will be, cannot be figured up until after election, but it will not be small. I'm very anxious to endorse the policy—but I shouldn't do it by supporting the Democratic party, which originated it, and, if I have got it right, I'm not for it, instead of supporting the party which is divided upon it.

Nor am I more ready to support the civil service policy. I have some confidence yet in Republican office-holders, I don't believe they are so corrupt and unprincipled that, like lepers, they must be excluded from all associations of decent men. I have been in the Republican party from its formation. I have never held an office, but I have shown many officeholders by the Republican party, and have found them, as a rule, honorable men, rather than moral and political louts as the Boston half-which Press lies at Hayes and his friends say about Republican office-holders is true, the party has no claim for the further support of decent men. The man who is not fit to be in a Republican caucus, ought not to be trusted with the people's money. I believe the mass of our office-holders are honest men, and I do not propose to endorse the man who places the badge of disgrace upon them, and points them out to the people as a class to be shunned in every community. I am aware that there are those who believe that the best thing for those to do who are opponents of the President's policy upon these questions is to support the Republican ticket this year, hoping for an opportunity to reverse the party position next year. To me this seems the height of folly. If I vote for Mr. Rice my vote is counted as an endorsement of Mr. Hayes. Mr. Rice's election will convince the President that the Republicans of Massachusetts support him. I can do nothing which will convey such an impression. Mr. Rice's defeat will open the eyes of the policy men, and tend to cause a change of front. It may be a little slow, but it will take care more than one year to get from my position in November 1876, around to stand arm-in-arm with Wade Hampton and be patted on the back by the Boston Herald. For the reasons I have given I shall not vote for Mr. Rice, and as a life-long Republican I cannot vote for Mr. Gaston.

A LIFE-LONG REPUBLICAN.

The vagaries with which the advocates of the surrender policy solve upon the slightest pretext for proclaiming the conversion of the Southern Ku-Klux, is well illustrated by the perseverance with which such items as the following from the New Hampshire Sentinel, are kept afloat, after the whole farce has been exposed by the virtually shelving of all the prosecutions of the Kemper butchers:

The grand jury of Kemper county has taken the advice of the presiding judge in his charge on the opening of the Fall term of the court, and returned thirty-one indictments against the parties concerned in the Chisholm and other assassinations. Six of the indictments are for murder and twenty-five as accessory thereto. There is said to be a determination manifested on the part of the law officers to see justice take its course and the guilty parties punished for their crimes.

MR. CONKLING'S COUNTY. Sylvester Gridley was nominated for Senator in the Oneida County Republican Convention at Rome, Tuesday. Resolutions, offered by ex-Senator Lowery, declaring adhesion to the Cincinnati platform, publication, and commending the President for fulfilling these pledges, were voted down. The resolutions adopted declare that the Republicans stand by Hayes as they did by Lincoln and Grant, and contain a quotation from Senator Conkling's speech at Rochester, saying, "We are for the success of the National Administration in everything real, in everything honest, in everything wise according to the Constitution, the laws and the common sense of the people."

While the New Yorkers are getting ready to protest against the failure of the Republican Convention to indorse the adoption of the Democratic policy, the Evening Post announces that the ex-Vice-President of the Confederacy is holding court in the metropolis as follows:

Mr. Alexander H. Stephens will hold informal receptions every day this week at the house of Mr. A. Johnson, No. 9 East Sixty-fourth street, from 10 A. M. to 1 P. M., and from 3 to 6 P. M.

In the last Harper's Weekly some one tries to make a weak pictorial parody of Nast's great cartoons. It is intended to glorify the surrender policy, but is so melancholy an effort that it only emphasizes the significant silence of the great Artist who has rendered the paper famous, and whose genius should not be travestied by job-workmen.

The Ohio Republicans wrote to Massachusetts for $10,000 with which to carry on the campaign. The inference is that they are going to hire Mr. Schurz to stump for them.—Lowell Courier.

HARRISON'S PERISTALTIC LOZENGES.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR

Costiveness, Dyspepsia, Piles,

Oppression after Eating, Headache, Dizziness,

For thirty years these Lozenges have retained the confidence of the Medical Profession and the public generally, in spite of all competitors and imitators. They are the most effectual remedy for HABITUAL COSTIVENESS and its results, viz: Piles, Indigestion, Headache, Dizziness, Languor, Oppression of Food, Heartburn, Flatulence, Bad Taste in the mouth, Torpid Liver, &c., &c.

Females who cannot endure strong purgatives find these Lozenges admirably suited to the many complaints incident to their sex, by restoring nature and preventing periodical pains and obstructions. They are also just the thing for children suffering with worms, being a sure cure, and as agreeable to take as the most pleasant confection.

Travellers will find the Lozenges just what they need, as they are so compact and insolubble that they may be carried in the vest pocket, and as an aperient or laxative they are unequalled.

Testimonial from a Boston Merchant.

BOSTON, May 10, 1865.

This certifies that I have used Dr. Harrison's PERISTALTIC LOZENGES, and, after suffering a long time with the Piles I experienced an entire cure, and recommend their use to all afflicted in the same way, without reserve, or especially if attended with any constipation.

THE NEW YORK DEMOCRACY.

IN CONVENTION—SECOND DAY.

Tammany Triumphant.

THE PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

The anti-Tammany Men Excluded.

ALBANY, Oct. 4 The Democratic Convention assembled at 11 A. M and listened to speeches till noon when the committee on contested seats reported The Corning delegates from Albany, the McLaughlin delegates from Brooklyn and the regular Tammany delegates from New York were all reported as entitled to seats (Applause and hisses) An amendment was offered to report admitting the Whitbeck instead of the Corning delegation and that twenty-four anti Tammany and thirty nine Tammany delegates be admitted A motion prevailed that none of the delegates whose seats are contested shall vote on the adoption of the amendment or the report The majority report was then adopted A short recess was taken that the delegation might agree upon the names of the committees on organization and resolutions The convention reassembled, committees on organization and resolutions were announced and a recess taken till afternoon

Reassembled—Congratulations—Permanent Organization

On reassembling of the convention the following was offered

Resolved That the Democracy of New York in convention assembled sends greetings to the Democracy of the sister State of New Jersey and congratulates the voters of that State on the nomination of that worthy and soldier Governor George M Robeson

The Resolution was adopted by rising and with three cheers

Mr Brooks from the committee on permanent organization, reported all that officers of the Big Chief Clarkson N Potter, President which was agreed to Mr Potter was greeted with applause and mingled cheers on rising to address the convention

The Platform

Mr Clinton, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, read the following which was adopted

The people having in that last Presidential contest elected by a clear electoral majority the Democratic candidates for President and Vice-President, and the will of the Nation thus constitutionally declared having been wickedly and hostilely nullified by means of the grossest corruptions and frauds of returning boards protected and adopted if not instigated by the party in possession of the Government and rendered practicable by a threatening array of military force, therefore

Resolved That at this, the first convention of the Democrats of the State held since the consummation of this great crime it is not only just and fit, but it is a duty in the interest of constitutional government and in the vindication and preservation of the sacred right of the majority to choose their rulers to denounce with the warmest indignation this unprecedented wrong and hold it up to lasting execration

Resolved That this duty of setting a mark of infamy on this transaction and preventing any quick forgetfulness or easy condonation of it from raising a dangerous precedent for future outrage requires specially and peculiarly upon the Democratic party of this State one of whose most illustrious leaders was the President actually elected by the Nation

Resolved That the late House of Representatives deserve the thanks of all patriots and lovers of liberty for their just refusal in the exercise of the most august and valuable privilege belonging to the Representatives of the people to all constitutional appropriations, to appropriate money for the support of soldiers to be used in the illegal and despotic application of clerks in any portion of the Republic

Resolved That the present National Administration by the withdrawal of troops from the South and its cessation from the malevolent unconstitutional and oppressive interference with the internal affairs of States has fulfilled the expectations of the victorious Republican party by following the course marked out by the Federal Constitution and to which Democrats stand pledged and it is therefore entitled to the gratitude of the people of all good citizens

The Democratic party of New York reaffirm the following principles set forth in their platform adopted in 1875 now thus endorsed by a large majority of the voters of the State

Gold and silver the only legal tender and a currency inconvertible with gold steady steps toward specie payment no step backwards honest payment of the public debt in coin, sacred preservation of the public faith, revenue reform, a tariff for revenue only no Government partnership with protected monopolies horse rule to limit and localize most judiciously the powers entrusted to public servants municipal State and Federal, no centralization equal and exact justice to all men, no partial legislation, no partial taxation, official accountability enforced by better civil and criminal remedies, no private use of public funds by public officers, corporations chartered by the State also was in favorable by the State in the future to the people through the party in power economy in the public expenditures that labor may be lightly burdened

Resolved, That we are opposed to the granting of subsidies by the Government to corporations or individuals for the construction of railroads or other internal improvement, as unnecessary at this on the scope of Federal power and inevitably productive of corruption

(The remainder of the resolutions relate exclusively to State affairs)

The Nominations Made

After the adoption of the platform the Convention resolved to proceed to the nomination of State officers The names of Allen C Beach, John Bigelow and Abraham B Weaver were proposed for Secretary of State and speeches were made in favor of each, some of which partook of the general characteristics of the Convention viz the Tammany and Tammany contest over its control

The ballot for Attorney General resulted

Augustus Schoonmaker,	225
Charles S Fairchild	114
Artemas B Waldo	25

The nomination of Schoonmaker was made unanimous Horatio Seymour Jr was nominated for engineer and surveyor by acclamation A committee was appointed to notify the nominees James Mackin was nominated treasurer by acclamation The State Committee was selected and with cheers for the ticket the Convention adjourned

The Railway Frauds

LONDON, Oct. 4., The papers publish numerous statements concerning the frauds on the Midland Railway Yesterday's announcements were too highly colored. Men employed in the construction of Settle and Carlisle branch of the Midland Railway appropriated the Company's materials and made false returns of the number of men under them and the amount of service rendered, and indulged in other fraudulent practices; but the amount involved is not large, and much will probably be recovered. Three delinquents have been remanded.

MISS DRAKE'S ENTERPRISE.

Dorothea Drake was by trade a milliner and dress maker; and, "according to her own showing," a better was not to be found either in the goodly city of Hubbubble or its surroundings.

It is one great thing in life to be satisfied with one's self; and Dorothea's air to a physiognomist, plainly indicated that she had already arrived at that aim. Further, she had imbued others with her own ideas, not by self-admiration, for the little milliner was modest in regard to words, but she had a way of setting a flower, adjusting a bow, and plaiting a ribbon, finishing off with a toss of the head, which said more effectively than words, "Show me the woman that can do better than that."

Yes, she was satisfied with herself and her business; for the latter was steadily increasing and she was able to live comfortably, pay her help better than others in the trade, and still add to her bank account something every month.

"According to newspaper account, you are to have a rival soon, in the new six-story building opposite," said Jessy Wilton—a roguish girl, who liked to get up what she called an excitement in the workroom.

"A what?" fairly screamed Miss Drake, thrown quite off her guard by this piece of astonishing news.

"Arrival. The papers are full of his advertisements. It's the rich Jones, that made so much by gold speculation in war time, but that doesn't satisfy him, he's going into the women's clothing business on a grand scale."

"Thank Providence, none of my customers will patronize him, from principle and besides, they never buy ready-made garments." Miss Drake's concluded the speech with a becoming toss of the head. Then she picked up a copy of the morning Speculator, and glanced over the page of advertisements. For a moment only, her heart sank within her as she read, "Made to order, every article pertaining to a lady's wardrobe, and at reduced prices. Grand opening, the 25th."

No sooner had Miss Drake disappeared than Jessy said "I didn't tell her out of spite. But you know, she's always saying that she would like to see a rival of the opposite sex that talent and energy could not rout; and I thought it a good time to let her know that she will have to practice what she preaches."

"The wonder to me is that she hasn't seen their advertisements before," said Lucy Wade.

"I expect we shall see a grand display, on Monday," said a third. "I know some girls that are going into Jones' workroom, and they say his dresses and bonnets are elegant."

"I'd be ashamed to work for Jones, or any other man, in the millinery or dressmaking business," said Lucy Wade, as the girls were preparing to leave, for it was Saturday night, and the six o'clock bell had just struck.

"So would I; but there are plenty of others that would, it seems, for he has over a hundred in his workroom already," said Jessy Walton.

On the following Monday, Miss Drake's establishment was, as usual, open to the public. The girls were left to themselves in the workroom; for the shutters were drawn up from the highly decorated front of the monster building opposite, and Dorothea seated her-elf where she could obtain a view of the interior of the store. In the centre of the deep show window revolving a figure dressed from bonnet to boot, in the latest Parisian style—at least so said the placard.

Spectators soon began to gather in crowds around the window, and before noon the store was thronged with customers, many of whom had formerly patronized Miss Drake.

Young ladies and misses went there, chaffering over the various under-garments which are necessary to the lady's toilet with snobbish clerks. Dorothea Drake sought aid, and was astonished and indignant. To tell the truth, her store might have been closed all day, so far as business was concerned, for they had actually done nothing.

"I'll be mistress of the situation yet," said the little milliner, as she ordered the blinds put up. Her plan was formed, and she appealed to Mrs Wolf, a widowed friend, who had a mint of money lying useless in the bank, to furnish her with capital.

The widow listened to Dorothea's project, but raised her hands in horror at the absurdity, and exclaimed "Dorothea Drake, I think you must have lost your senses. Young woman, to harbor the thought of setting a one-story store, and going against a big company like the Jonesses! I should do wrong to give you a dollar to squander in such a way. Now, times have changed, and the small manufacturers must give in to the big ones.

"That is to say, the seven kine, in the shape of Jones & Co., and other large firms, who are dipping into business heretofore conducted by women, are to devour us, and we must submit to the swallowing without resistance," said Dorothea.

"Since the world began might has conquered right, and, however woman may rant and rave, I don't look for a speedy change. The best, in fact the only thing for you to do, in my opinion, is to leave what money you have in the bank, sell out your goods, give up your story, and take a position under Jones & Co., or some other man milliner, on a salary. You might command good wages, I should judge, from your experience."

After delivering her opinion, Mrs. Wolf smoothed the folds of her crape robe, and settled back in her easy chair.

Dorothea's face reddened and paled by turns. She looked searchingly into the calm face of the widow and asked, "Is that your advice to me, Mrs. Wolf?"

"It is, and you will do well to follow it, child."

"Don't call me a child! I arrived at years of discretion long ago. As to your advice, I would not follow it to save me from the poor-house; for, however I may fall short of the end to which I hope to attain, I know I shall, with God's help, do good to some poor struggling woman."

Disappointed, but not disheartened, Dorothea made a second call on a wealthy lady, and with the same result. "One more rebuff, and I'll try the opposite sex!" said she to herself as she made her third call. Mrs. Amy was at home, and Dorothea was shown into the plain parlor. As the tall, gaunt figure rose to receive her, and Dorothea looked up into herhard grey eyes, she felt the utter hopelessness of the appeal; yet it was made, and those cold eyes rested calmly on Dorothea's face as though she was speaking the truth, when she said, "I am sorry I have no money at my disposal. If your scheme is really a good one, there are plenty who will furnish the capital."

For a minute Dorothea looked her steadfast in the face, then said: "What if this night God should require your soul of you? Would not those who came after you find money lying useless in your well secured safe? Glittering gold. It will shed no light on the dark path from this to the future world. Remember this, Jane Amy; remember my words."

The rich woman stood staring in surprise at Dorothea, who passed out of the door ere she could collect herself to reply.

"I ought to have turned her out of the house; and I will, too, if she ever presumes to call again," said the indignant lady; but she failed to keep her word.

One short week and she lay in her coffin. It was not the mistress of the mansion who had been turned out, but by an earthly potentate, but by the will of One from whose divine commands there is no escape; and Dorothea Drake again crossed the threshold, to attend the funeral.

With the small group gathered there sat Harry Hart, himself the only mourner, a nephew of the deceased. Though he had not counted on it, it came to him—the half a million his aunt had so zealously hoarded. The jolly captain of the "Plover" was henceforth to bear the burden of a fortune.
